Think about how big a gun safe you should buy, because when you start collecting rifles and long guns, the size of the hand safe starts to come in. Consider the weapons storage safe you want to buy. Choose a safe with an adjustable shelf and modular interior. A safe on an elevated floor is an advantage because it prevents your guns from banging on the gun vault. Check the higher rating of water safes and fire weapons. It is best to maintain proper care when figuring out which security suits your needs. Consider what is the best weapon safe locking system for your safety. Reliable and affordable locking systems are ideal for most gun owners. Avoid rusty weapons inside the gun vault when the humid climate begins. During storage, you can choose to use a dehumidifier to protect your firearms from drying and rusting. It is best to first identify the area in the house, so that your gun safe also played an important role in choosing a safe for the gun. Mounting your vault on a gun is the main factor to consider. Most gun owners want a basement because it's an area that's out of sight and out of the fire. In addition to its physical location, Field & Stream has an even larger online store that offers a huge range of every outdoor product you might want. You may be surprised to see the cost of Field & Stream vaults as they are much more affordable than other products. Forte Field & Stream is affordability and value, not security and security. Personally, I consider these safes to be a great option if the items you store are not of high value and if high safety and fire protection are not necessarily a high priority. However, if you are looking for something that keeps your very expensive, sentimental items safe, I recommend considering some other great brands with a higher level of safety and security. Recommended reseller: Our recommended online retailer is GunSafes.com. They have one of the largest selections on gun safes and other firearms accessories online. In addition, if you order a safe in front of them, you will receive FREE SHIPPING. Check out their selection. I'm sure they'll have you may need to. Field and Stream Reviews It is very important that you are completely thorough in examining different types of safes and features from different manufacturers. Otherwise, you may end up buying a safe that wasn't quite right for you. To make it easier for you, I've narrowed it down to 6 specific categories of reviews I'm looking for in each vault, the first of which is the fire protection rating. Fire protection plays a key role in the safety of your valuables and is often overlooked. It is possible to obtain stolen items from a thief, but not fire. I always recommend at least 60 minutes of fire protection in every situation. The Field & Stream brand offers only 30 minutes of fire protection, so it's not such a great idea to store expensive or irreplaceable items. Another thing to consider is the capacity and size of the safes. It is imperative that you choose a safe to grow into, not grow up in. A common mistake is to look at your current settings and buy a safe that is perfect for now and now later. Soon you'll have a case of buyer remorse once you get the new weapon you wanted and find that you've already extracted the capacity of your vault. How safe must your safe be? Well, there's no such thing as too much security, especially when you can't put a price on your valuables and keepsakes. Field & Stream is a secure input level manufacturer, so their vaults tend to be on the low security side. I'd be tired of saving anything that's of extreme value. Something's better than nothing, isn't it? Wrong. Putting all the valuables in one convenient place is great for any thief and if you have a low security safe, within minutes the intruder can gain access and be out of them faster than going through all the drawers and hiding places. The type of lock of your safe will help you determine how quickly you can access your safe in an emergency. The combined dial lock can take a while, especially compared to a fast 4-digit electronic keyboard. Depending on the model you choose, Field & Stream offers key lock, combined dialing locks as well as an electronic keyboard lock, which I recommend. Although field & stream safes are budget safe, they still offer aesthetically pleasing units and also feature some nice interior features, especially in the Sportsman Pro series. More common than ever, full-fledged safes become a piece of furniture in the living room and playrooms, so it's important to have something that looks good. The guarantee is another important thing to look for in the vault. You will normally find that I write about warranty information at the end of my reviews. In addition to the short-term guarantee covering things such as lock and finish, most manufacturers also provide some kind of lifetime guarantee. Sportsman Series athlete is a full-fledged vault from Field & Stream; This is a great option if you are looking for an affordable way to keep your valuables and weapons safe from intruders and reach from children. You will find that Field & Stream models are a fraction of the price of other vaults of similar size; this makes it ideal for a budget of any size. The athlete comes in 3 different size options: Athlete 10, which measures 55 x 19 x 15.25 is the smallest in the series and has about 10 weapons. The midsize model, Sportsman 16, has about 16 guns and measures 55 x 24 x 20.25. The largest of the series is Sportsman 24, this model has about 24 long guns and measures at 55 x 29 x 20.25. With budget friendly prices like these, there is no reason to jump for the largest size they offer. This safe is ETL verified for 30 minutes of fire protection at 1400 ° F. I know it's 30 minutes below my 60 Minutes recommendation, but you really can't complain at this price. If you are thinking of a Sportsman series, I highly recommend that you store it in a fireproof location such as a garage or basement. This is really the only way to combat lower fire resistance ratings. If you plan to store anything of high value, I recommend opting out of some of the other brands that offer a higher fire protection rating. The Sportsman series includes a range of safety features that help prevent drilling and curiosity. The vault door is recessed and firmly ad sticks to the body using 1 steel screw that covers 2 of the 4 sides of the security door. A hardened plate behind the lock is also included to prevent the safe from drilling. These are great security features that they have in the vault, but I would still give this vault a low security rating. As I said before, the main concern of Field & Stream is affordability and value, not security and security. If you are looking for a safe to store valuables at high prices, I highly recommend looking at other brands that offer higher security ratings. The Sportsman exterior comes in a matte black pebble finish with a logo and stripes right on the front of the door. The interior of the safe is a gray carpet and has adjustable shelves and oravas for added comfort and storage of weapons, accessories and valuables. Field & Stream has a limited lifetime repair or replacement warranty that covers your safe from damage caused by theft or fire to the original buyer. They also include a 5-year warranty to cover your safe from material and processing errors. Sportsman Pro Series Sportsman Pro is on top of the line safe from Field & Stream and yet is still a fraction of the price of other models of the entry level series. This series may not have as much safety and fire protection as some other vault brands, but that's why it's so affordable. The Sportsman Pro series includes 3 different models that vary in size and capacity of weapons. Largest 3 has about 48 long guns and measures at 59 x 43 x 26 . The medium-sized Sportsman Pro can hold about 40 long guns and measures only slightly smaller than the largest model with 59 x 35.25 x 26.75. The smallest safe in the series will have 32 long guns and is 59 x 29.25 x 25.5. Now that we've been looking at Pro series models of different sizes, let's go on and look at the safety, fire and aesthetic features. Since Field & Stream designs its vaults to be affordable for almost any budget, the fire protection rating on their vaults tends to be on the low side. The fire protection assessment in the Sportsman Pro series is 30 minutes at 1400 ° F. I always recommend at least 60 minutes of fire protection in each scenario, so I would recommend putting safes somewhere like a garage or basement where it will be surrounded by cement and not wooden walls and floors. The Pro has similar safety features to the standard Sportsman series, but includes several others. Included are recessed curiosity-resistant doors, which are locked with 7-1 1/2 steel screws and 3 dead screws that fully secure all four sides of the secure door to the body. It also features a hard, drilling-resistant board behind an electronic 4-digit lock. For being such an affordable vault, Sportsman Pro includes a range of storage options. These options include fully adjustable shelves with carpets, long-range barrel oras and an integrated door panel that includes movable gun cases and several pockets of different sizes for storing accessories. The exterior of the vault comes in a black matte pebble finish with the Field & Stream logo and eagle graphics. The warranty included in the Pro Series vault includes limited lifetime repair or warranty replacement to protect your safe from damage caused by theft or fire. They also include a 5-year warranty to cover your safe from material and processing errors. This warranty applies only to the original vault owner. Counted and everything in everything, Field & Stream; Stream makes some great products that are actually a good balance between quality and value. They seem to retain great customer feedback as opposed to other cost-effective safes. You will find very few full-fledged gun safes with a price tag so good. As I said before, I would very much design the Field & Stream brand if you have a tight budget and are looking for an affordable way to keep your firearms out of the reach of thieves and children. Since there are really only two different series of gun safes from Field & Stream, your biggest decision will be capacity. When adding to a collection, select a size to grow to. The last thing you want is to grow out of it year by road. The most popular best-selling vault from Field & Stream is their Sportsman Pro 32 model. This is a great medium to large capacity safe that has all the features you would like including an affordable price tag. Since it's part of the Pro series, you'll see enhanced security features in the standard Sportsman series, as well as a comfortable door panel that includes all types of weapons and accessories. If you are selling on the Field & Stream brand, I would definitely be in the spring for this model, or maybe even jump on the larger Sportsman 48 model because there is little price difference. Difference.
